Program Description

Eagleton School serves males, ages 9-22 years, who have multiple disabilities, emotional disturbance, learning disabilities, mild-moderate cognitive impairment, mild orthopedic impairment, autism, or other health impairment. Students spend a month in the diagnostic resource room prior to classroom assignment. A career-oriented curriculum of special education is individually structured for students in the middle and secondary schools. On campus, daytime and evening vocational training experiences include food service, landscaping, grounds maintenance, wood shop, agriculture, and maintenance and repairs. Clinical treatment utilizes both individual and group modalities, with the goals of developing greater social and problem-solving skills, and addressing individual therapeutic issues. Residential living consists of 6 homes with 8-10 students grouped by age and functioning level. There is a monthly family on-site visit, with motel expenses paid by the school, and a family therapy session that coincides with the visit.

Program Description

Devereux-Kanner Learning Center offers a 12 month /220 day special education program and a vocational training program for students, ages 6-21 years, who have cognitive impairments, social-emotional disturbance, traumatic brain injury, and speech-language impairment. The program is ungraded with students grouped by the following criteria: functioning levels, socialization skills, and age. Class sizes range from a 4:2 through 9:2 ratio. The curriculum is designed with 4 components: social skills/language, home living skills, employment, and functional academics. Students are exposed to a variety of experiences, on and off campus, including physical education, art, library/multimedia center, field trips, assemblies, and an on-campus zoo.

The vocational training center develops production skills through a variety of supplemental paid contracts. Kanner's mobile work forces include building and grounds maintenance training on campus as well as in the community. All supported/supportive work placements are followed by a job coach.

Program Description

The Melmark School provides three types of programs for school aged students. Group C-O serves children with autism spectrum disorders, mental retardation, traumatic brain injury, and other neurologically based disorders. This program consists of a 365 day residential, 12 month school calendar incorporating individual instruction with a 1:2 staffing ratio during the day. The rate includes applied behavior analysis programming, 24 hour on-campus nursing, speech therapy, physical therapy, occupational therapy, parent training and educational services.

Group C-1 serves children with developmental disabilities who have less severe behavioral challenges and are able to ambulate independently or require minimal assistance for transfer. Group C-2 serves children who have mild mental retardation and no history of challenging behaviors. In addition, the student must be able to ambulate and toilet independently and function with minimal supervision. IEP objectives are addressed, along with behavioral objectives, and training in social skills, daily living skills, and community integration.

Program Description

The Bennington School is a residential program serving male and female adolescents, ages 9-18 years, who have learning disabilities, other health impairment, and emotional disturbance. The Bennington School utilizes a therapeutic reality-based approach. The interdisciplinary team identifies strategies and interventions to meet individual student needs. These interventions and strategies are executed through numerous therapeutic activities consisting of outdoor adventure, sports, field trips, individual and group therapy, along with weekly community meetings. Classes in Math, English, Reading, Social Studies, Science, and Group Living Skills are scheduled for all students. Academic facilities and group residences are maintained on the Fairview campus for males and the Mattison Campus for females. In addition, there are five houses within the community: Stoddard House; Vail House; Frost House; Manning House (for substance-abusing males, 13-17 years old); and Judi Fun House (females).
